The Tannahill Weavers are a popular band which performs traditional Scottish music. Releasing their first album in 1976 they became notable for being one of the first popular bands to incorporate the sound of the Great Highland Bagpipe in an ensemble setting, and in doing so helped to change the sound of Scottish traditional music. In 2011 the band was inducted into the Scottish Traditional Music Hall of Fame.

Old Blind Dogs - Oct 6, 7pm Whiteside Theatre, 361 SW Madison Avenue

Since forming in 1992, Old Blind Dogs have stood on the cutting edge of Scotland's roots revival. The band has developed its own trademark style with an energetic mix of songs and tunes. Dynamic percussion, polished vocals, soaring fiddle and stirring pipes fuel the delicately-phrased melodies and traditional songs.

Twenty-five years is a long time in the life of any band and most who reach that milestone are content to rest on the tried and true formulas that have worked in the past. Not so for Scotland's Old Blind Dogs, who do not shy away from change. A strong, shared musical vision has allowed the group to ride out inevitable lineup changes whilst their popularity has never dimmed.

The current foursome of Jonny Hardie (fiddle, vocals), Aaron Jones (bouzouki, guitar, vocals), Ali Hutton (Pipes, whistles, vocals) and Donald Hay (percussion, vocals) have proven more than capable of carrying on the tradition of the band that the Montreal Gazette called, "...a Scots neo-traditional supergroup with a bracingly modern musical attack."

The Dogs have released eleven albums and have won numerous awards along the way including the prestigious title of 'Folk Band of the Year' at the 2004 and 2007 Scots Trad Music Awards. Their album 'Four On The Floor' also picked up the IAP 'Best Celtic CD' Award in the USA and their last CD was nominated for the same honour.

"The skill, talent and verve with which they played, belied their laddishness and the crowd responded with thunderous applause. Folk is the new rock and roll." (Evening News)

The Old Blind Dogs play with a compelling energy and intoxicating rhythm, players and audience seem to share a wild ecstasy of emotion. (The Scotsman)

"Old Blind Dogs have mastered the tricky art of innovating within a musical tradition while faithfully revealing its essence." (Acoustic Guitar)

"Old Blind Dogs bring freshness and color to acoustic music steeped in centuries of Scottish folklore and history." (The Los Angeles Times)

"Bill Staines is a craftsman with a trunkful of unassuming, marvelous songs."

- The Washington Post

"Staines is one of the best songwriters in folk music today, penning lyrics that evoke a sense of place and a generous spirit."

- Associated Press

"Bill Staines has been my hero since 1977. He carries on the tradition of stories and characters you wish you knew."

- Nanci Griffith

Bill Staines

With Mike & Carleen McCornack

Thursday October 19 7:30 pm

Martha Room

First Methodist Church 1165 NW Monroe Ave.

For many years, part of my reward for producing Bill's concerts has been hearing him play songs in my living room. Likewise for Mike and Carleen. I've always wanted to do a smaller-scale house concert with these three wonderful musicians but didn't have the space. So, it finally hit me - rent the Martha (Best Cellar) Room, set it up as livingroom-ly as possible, and limit the audience size to 60 tickets.

So, if you like cozy concerts, sing-alongs, and an evening of great songs and beautiful harmonies, head down to Grassroots to get your tickets. (We had over 120 people at Bill's 2016 show so it's best to get your tickets early.)

Tickets: $18 in advance at Grassroots Books & Music

$20 at door; $2 discount for CFS members, seniors, & children

Tickets are also available at: <https://www.tickettomato.com/event/5044>

Tannahill Weavers - Oct 29, 7pm

Whiteside Theatre, 361 SW Madison Avenue

The Tannahill Weavers are one of Scotland's premier traditional bands. Their diverse repertoire spans the centuries with fire-driven instrumentals, topical songs, and original ballads and lullabies. Their music demonstrates to old and young alike the rich and varied musical heritage of the Celtic people. These versatile musicians have received worldwide accolades consistently over the years for their exuberant performances and outstanding recording efforts that seemingly can't get better...yet continue to do just that.

The Tannahills have turned their acoustic excitement loose on audiences with an electrifying effect. They have that unique combination of traditional melodies, driving rhythmic accompaniment, and rich vocals that make their performances unforgettable. As the Winnipeg Free Press noted, "The Tannahill Weavers - properly harnessed - could probably power an entire city for a year on the strength of last night's concert alone. The music may be old time Celtic, but the drive and enthusiasm are akin to straight ahead rock and roll."

Born of a session in Paisley, Scotland and named for the town's historic weaving industry and local poet laureate Robert Tannahill, the group has made an international name for its special brand of Scottish music, blending the beauty of traditional melodies with the power of modern rhythms. The Tannahill Weavers began to attract attention when founding members Roy Gullane and Phil Smillie added the full-sized highland bagpipes to the on-stage presentations, the first professional Scottish folk group to successfully do so. The combination of the powerful pipe solos, Roy's driving guitar backing and lead vocals, and Phil's ethereal flute playing breathed new life into Scotland's vast repertoire of traditional melodies and songs.

Since their first visit to the United States in 1981, the Tannahills' unique combination of traditional melodies on pipes, flute and fiddle, driving rhythms on guitar and bouzouki, and powerful three and four part vocal harmonies have taken the musical community by storm. As Garrison Keillor, the host of Prairie Home Companion, remarked, "These guys are a bunch of heroes every time they go on tour in the States".

Over the years the Tannies have been trailblazers for Scottish music, and their tight harmonies and powerful, inventive arrangements have won them fans from beyond the folk and Celtic music scenes. In 2011 the band was inducted into the Scottish Traditional Music Hall of Fame, and in 2014 they are joined by innovative piper Lorne MacDougall. Lorne comes with a high pedigree, having arranged and performed pipes for the Disney Pixar movie "Brave", along with a long list of other accomplishments.

With their impending 50th anniversary in 2018, the Tannahill Weavers are firmly established as one of the premier groups on the concert stage. From reflective ballads to footstomping reels and jigs, the variety and range of the material they perform is matched only by their enthusiasm and lively Celtic spirits.

"...world class musicians with passion and a healthy sense of fun, keeping alive and making accessible the very heart of the tradition itself." - Mojo Magazine
